BYU, U.S. HAVE CAUSE FOR THANKS AMIDST STRIFE

by Dan Clark

HUNGER AND INDIANS ma the Pilgrim fathers at Plymouth n 1620 A year later these same people feasted and prayed to o their Creator for the bless ngs of life and food

Although times have changed n many things, the paramount dea of thanking Our Father in Heaven for what we have is still a part of our way of life

Throughout history men have given thanks to the Lord in many different ways and plan. Adam offered sacrifice to Noah, the Lord. Moses advised the people of his exit to pay part of the harvest for a feast of thanksgiving and a time of repenting for their iniquities. Abraham Lincoln proclaimed through Congress in 1862 the annual holiday of Thanksgiving, a time specially set aside for the American people to rejoice and offer thanks to God for the things that often ouno.

TODAY, even in this period of strife and contention among nations of the world, we still have much to be thankful for. As students at Brigham Young University our appreciation to God should be great. Where else can we be part of the finest system of higher learning and gain so many benefits for our time, study under such great instructors labor and spirit of friendliness and leadership as here at BYU? Where can we live so closely with those of our own belief and under the threat of an un-godlike force. Their lands, homes and very freedom has been smashed by a "Red Monster." Many are homeless and separated from their families at this Thanksgiving time. Many dead, wounded and sorrowful will have little to be thankful for on Thursday.

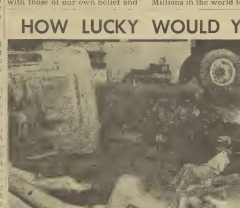
Millions in the world today are

HOW THANKFUL WE, as Americans, can be that our nation is free from Soviet tyranny. How thankful we can be that our constitution allows us the freedom which others recently have fought so bitterly to achieve. Freedom of speech, worship, press and assembly should mean much to us this season.

Thursday families and loved ones will gather together to feast and thank the Lord for the unnumbered blessings they have received this past year. Let us remember to thank Him that we are free, that we can vote for whom we please, that we can be with our loved ones and feast together and be a part of America.

Let us remember the words of this Thanksgiving song which starts, "We gather together to ask the Lord's blessings." Thursday we give thanks, sing and and be merry, for we, living in this chosen land, can truly be thankful for what we have. And let us not forget those who will be mourning during this time for the Freedom we enjoy.

HOW LUCKY WOULD YOU HAVE BEEN?



Occupants of this vehicle involved in this mess may or may not have survived—or even been seriously injured. The question is: Just how lucky would YOU be in a smashup such as this. If you are going home and have to travel over Thanksgiving weekend, please be careful. Don't take chances and consider all other drivers as dangerous. How lucky will YOU be?

VOICE OF THE BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY

Vol 9, No 43. Wednesday, Nov 21, 1956 Provo, Utah

Tar, Feather Methods Cited . . .

Charges Filed Against Athenians

ATHENIAN SOCIAL unit has been charged with violating Brigham Young University standards in outing procedure and with violating a studentbody statute

The complaint, scheduled to be filed Tuesday afternoon by Monroe McKay, charged Athenians with using "tar and feather methods" on pledges last week in "inappropriate conduct" which is "degrading to both the persons involved and the university." McKay said in announcing the action.

SECOND COUNT in the complaint charges the unit with making an "A" on "Y" mountain in violation of a 1956 Senate law which prohibits display of any emblems on the mountain other than the official university "Y".

McKay's complaint was to have been filed with Nancy Briggs, IGC Court prosecuting attorney, who will refer the case to the Board of Inquiry for further action

THE BOARD OF INQUIRY has five days from the date of complaint to take action, according to Muth Hollingsworth, IGC president.

Athenian pledges were alleged given a "tar and feather" treatment involving either tar or grease and taken into the country on a one-way ride in which they were made to walk back to town.

Lou Hunter, El Paso, Tex., president, could not be reached for comment

Two Students Injured Sunday In Auto Crash

Two students are in "fair" and "fairly good" condition at Utah Valley Hospital following an automobile accident in Provo Canyon Sunday morning.

The California students, Gerry Taylor, Southgate, and Bruce Dunford, Huntington Park, were thrown from their car after it slid around a curve and was hit broadside by an oncoming auto. The car, a Volkswagon, was completely demolished

Dunford entered the hospital in "critical" condition Sunday. He was suffering from a broken pelvis, punctured bladder and three broken ribs

Heavy internal bleeding made necessary an emergency operation upon his entrance to the hospital. His parents flew here from California to be with the injured student who Tuesday was listed in "fair" condition.

Miss Taylor also suffered a broken pelvis. Her condition was reported as "fairly good" Tuesday. According to hospital spokesman she should be released Saturday and flown to her home in California.

Students Assured Holiday Activities

A roundup of Thanksgiving holiday activities for stay-at-school students was given by Delsa Durfee, chairman.

Thursday night there will be a film classic at 7:30 in the Smith Building.

Students who were not contacted for dinner engagements should contact Mrs. Elva Davis in the student coordinator's office, in the basement of the Student Services Center. Students will be invited to homes of faculty and townspeople for Thanksgiving dinner

Friday night a dance will be held in the Smith Ballroom beginning at 8:30 p. m. Jerry Hyde's combo will furnish the music

Saturday at 2 p. m students are meeting at the Riverside Roller Skating Rink

Saturday night will be fun, activity and sports night in the South Fieldhouse. Everything from volleyball to checkers will be available for all to participate.

NEW WINTER COAT—Workmen are hurrying to get a new coat of paint on the men's dorms before cold weather sets in, according to the Housing office. The buildings are being repainted for the first time in about five years.

Senate Meeting To Discuss Hungarian Aid

What Brigham Young University can do to aid the Hungarians will be the topic of discussion at an emergency Student Senate meeting

A proposal that the four classes furnish immediate monetary aid to the Hungarians will be brought up before the legislative body at 6 a. m. Wednesday.

This proposal comes from the Senate steering committee. They have suggested that freshman sophomore classes contribute from $25 to $50 whereas and juniors would be asked to contribute from $15 to $25.

This money would come from class funds. A later contribution would be taken from the money collected in the Campus Chest Drive.

KBYU Meet Called

KBYU's final general staff meeting of the quarter is scheduled Monday in 149 Speech Center at 7 p. m. All staff members are reminded to attend.

The station's plans for a public openhouse will be discussed, and other items of business are also on the roster, according to Devern Perry, station manager

Administrator's Action Pending Court Report

THE ADMINISTRATION is still awaiting the report by the freshman court council before it takes any action concerning the frosh court, according to Dr. Henry L. Isaksen, Student Coordinator

The report was expected last week, although it was announced earlier that no action would be taken by the administration until after Thanksgiving. Dean of Students Wesley P Lloyd was expected to be away on a trip until that time.

Change in Dean Lloyd's plans make possible immediate action upon receipt of the council's report.

THE REPORT of the council, which will go to Dr. Isaksen, is expected to be passed on to Dean Lloyd Dean Lloyd will probably refer the incident to Selby Clark, chairman of scholarship and admission, for a final referral.

The frosh court council was organized earlier in the quarter to investigate disturbance at the October frosh court. Two freshmen were injured when some students began throwing pies buckets of water at the frosh.

The student council was appointed by studentbody president Monroe McKay to investigate the matter and council with the students responsible for the melee.

A RECCOMMENDATION for further action involving the responsible students was to have been passed on to the administration by the council.

The council was forced to adjourn debut last week after spending several weeks attempting to track down the names of all students involved in the incident John Wilcox, chairman of the council, was able to verify the name of only one student

The administration will be responsible for any further punitive measures which may include getting the freshmen students' doctor bills paid.

STRIKE A TIMID BLOW

RECENTLY "THOUSANDS of college students rose as a united body, fought and died for freedom. The cause for which they gave their lives is one very close to every student in America. Not only did they pay the ultimate price for political freedom, but also for intellectual freedom as well. They were willing to die for the right to think.

"For this reason their struggle becomes our struggle in a very real sense. We too are students—and we possess that right for which they so unhesitatingly gave their lives. We are implicated—though we live five thousand miles away, we have a measure or responsibility."

SO SAY THE Yale Emergency Aid for Hungarian Students Committee, who have begun a nationwide campaign to raise funds for aid to the Hungarians who started the fire that burned for weeks before being carefully quenched by a Russian flood.

To launch a compaign, the YEAHS staged a rally on the Yale campus which netted pledges of nearly $2,000 by campus organizations.

Plans have been made to request money from class funds and to ask students to contribute to the Hungarian aid fund through the Campus Chest Fund drive in December.

ALTHOUGH IT IS presently impossible to strike a physical blow in support of these fellow students in Hungary, it seems imperative for the college students of Brigham Young University and America to act positively.

Our sympathy, as heartfelt as it is, cannot span the thousands of miles between Provo and Budapest without a material contribution to carry it.

If fellow students, no matter the nationality, can find strength and zeal enough to strike a physical blow for freedom, free American students should feel themselves obligated to find the monetary support that may help heal the wounds these freedom fighters received.

It's Collegian Opinion . . .

U.S. Barely Favored In Olympics

MINNEAPOLIS — (ACP — By a bare margin of three percentage points college students feel the United States Olympic team will outpoint the Russian team at the Olympic games beginning Thursday in Australia. Broken down by sex, however, the margin is not close.

College men favor the United States team by a margin of 47 percentage points while college coeds favor the Russian team by a percentage margin of 16.

ASSOCIATED College Press gathered collegiate opinion on this issue by sampling from a representative national cross-section of college students. Figures were obtained from answers given to the following question:

Do you think Russia or the United States will win the most points at the Olympic games being held soon in Australia? Why?

The results:

	Men	Women	Total
Russia	34%	44%	37%
U. S.	66%	28%	49%
Undecided	19%	28%	23%

The difference of opinion between college men and women is hard to explain, but perhaps it is due to the fact that the men follow sports more closely and develop more confidence in our athletic prowess.

FOUR GENERAL lines of reasoning for those students who believe Russia will win the games. Most common is a belief that athletes is strongly stressed throughout the whole Russian culture. Next common is the opinion that Russia will win because her athletes are all professionals.

"Professional training will pay off" is the way Villanova University, (Villanova, Pa.) senior puts it. And a freshman coed attending Long Beach City College, (Long Beach, Calif.) seconds his opinion by stating, "Russia maintains and supports her athletes as they are artificially professional."

MANY STUDENTS are of the opinion that Russia will in because of the strength of her women athletes. Here's the way a Wesleyan University (Middletown, Conn.) junior looks at it. "Their women are stronger. Russian women athletes are better than the American women athletes.

A good number of students feel the Russian people as a whole are more physically fit than Americans. The Russian people seem to be more physically fit as far as athletics are concerned" is the way a freshman coed at Bemidji State Teachers College (Bemidji), Minn., feels.

SPEAKING of the Olympic teams a sophomore coed attending the School of Foreign Service of George Washington University (Washington, D. C.) says the Russian team is "better trained and the Russians are soft." A Moorhead State Teachers College (Moorhead, Minn.) sophomore thinks simply, "The Russians don't have better athletes, but more of them."

Students pinning their hopes on the U. S. team generally do so because of the reasons listed. The feeling as echoed by a graduate student at the University of Nebraska (Lincoln), that the U. S. team "has greater strength in its track and field divisions," which will offset weaknesses in other areas.

ANOTHER SEGMENT of opinion just has the general feeling that U. S. athletes are better athletes, or as it is plainly put by a Louisiana State University (Baton Rouge) freshman: "Ours is the best team!"

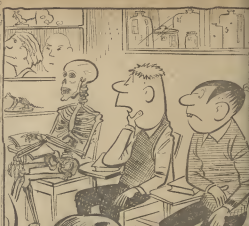
Still across the largest group of students favoring the U. S. team is that because of a belief in the "competitive spirit of Americans," as a graduate student attending Michigan State University (East Lansing) puts it. Here are a few more typical comments: We put more emphasis on sportsmanship," is the feeling of a Columbia College (Columbia, S. C.) senior coed.

"THE WILL TO WIN is a better conditioner than pay," is the expression of a senior at Wesleyan University (Conn.), while a junior at the same school says simply, "In this way we're not trained as 'robots.' The spirit of competition and sportsmanship of a Columbia College coed adds her voice to the feeling of advantage."

A mixed proof is offered by a freshman at the Henry Ford Community College (Dearborn, Mich.) who says the following at the "Olympic trials made this fact (a win for the U. S.) evident."

Students who are undecided on this issue either comment along the lines of an Alabama College (Montevallo) freshman coed who says: "I am not familiar with the Olympic situation," or else they feel the results will be too close to predict.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bible



The Springboard

by Dix K. Waddell

Innovations at Brigham Young University are at times sensational, and again, just oddly discussed.

The knee-length stocking craze is supposed to be for the girls from California who are "simply freezing with cold."

Because so many girls wear the bright leg-wear few people question the phenomenon openly. Three boys were discussing knee stockings in quiet tones on the second floor of the McKay building last Thursday, including the lurking possibility of hidden red flannels beneath, when two girls clad in the said stockings came down the hall.

One girl stooped, pulled the sagging leg-wear to knee and muttered to her companion. "New types of entertainment and torture at BYU: inch hanging Elvis Presley from Smith clock. Why is Elvis privileged? Has the "boy" been on campus and displayed "talents" or were the pranks imitating the fourteen-year-old boy was was electrocuted in a similar attempt in an eastern state (hanging an effigy of a crooner)?

After all that has been said on the subject it still seems to the people with the small minds have the largest feet. Progress in student appointed offices continues to suffer. Nobody affects the looks of a lawn as much as walking on it after frost has formed. Will it never cease to be, that pride in a beautiful world is only a superogritive to be put off and still?

Universe Takes Rest

Wednesday's edition of the Daily Universe will be the last until after Thanksgiving vacation.

Next edition will be distributed Monday morning, according to Ralph D. Barney, editor.

Deadline for Monday's paper, except in extreme cases, is 10 a. m. Wednesday, Barney said.

These deadlines have been set to allow staff members a chance to enjoy the Thanksgiving holidays, he added.

Entertainers Requested For Basketball Halftime

Organizations wishing to present participation basketball game half-time shows are asked to contact Gerry Rumford at 3-2857, or leave a note in Pep Activities box in the Student Coordinator's office in basement of the Student Service Center.

Social units, geographical or departmental clubs as individuals are eligible to participate the half-time activities.

Stay In Provo . . .

Dear Editor:

We are on the threshold of another Thanksgiving and all that it symbolizes, as I believe, that sometime in our busy days ahead we should stop for a few moments and meditate on the many blessings for which we have to be thankful.

First, we should thank God that we have been privileged to be able to have been born into the second estate of man and enjoy the responsibilities and blessings of working in this, the true church of Christ.

Second, we should be thankful that we have the opportunity of being able to attend the Brigham Young University with the opportunity to be educated intellectually, socially, physically, and spiritually.

Third, we should be thankful to our parents and friends that have given this opportunity available for us.

Fourth, and most important, we should thank the Lord for the great opportunity we have of serving him by exploring and obeying the commandments that he has given us.

From this point. We can effectively show our appreciation to our parents by their support that they have given us (at least those of us that live very great distances away) by remaining here in Provo during Thanksgiving vacation. I believe that our parents would rather have us away from them alive and healthy than to become either dead or badly injured by trying to be with them for three short days!

California Jazz Quintet Blows Concert In Provo Saturday

by Sally Arnold

Progressive jazz comes to Provo this weekend—live.

Pacific coast jazzman Chet Baker and his new quintet will present a two-hour concert Saturday evening at the Central Junior High School (formerly Provo High.)

Baker's current tour is the first time he has been know to play with a quintet. He was formerly recorded and toured with quartets, trios and groups larger than the quintet.

One of the youngest of the new crop of Pacific coast jazz artists, 20 year old Baker came out of the army virtually unknown in 1952 and made a breath taking race to the top of the jazz world in one year.

After playing with the Presidio Army Band for several army years the trumpet-player joined Charlie Parker's group.

Later he joined with Gerry Mulligan in forming the now famous pianoless quartet. He formed his own outfit in 1954

Time magazine described Baker's trumpet as sounding 'something like a clarinet with a frog in its throat—intimate, soft, agile.."

The Provo concert, sponsored by Provo radio station KEYY will be Saturday from 8-10 p. m.

General admission is $1 00, reserved seats are $1.50.

Circuclum Study Slated By Group

In an attempt to indicate more clearly the levels of courses, the Dean's Council has asked the curriculum committee to examine the numbering system in the Brigham Young University catalog.

This examination is being made with the probability that a new system will be worked out by the committee and proposed for adoption to the Dean's Council.

Dean Dean B. Farnsworth, chairman of the Curriculum Committee, said that all colleges have requested changes to be made in the 1957 catalog to reduce overlapping in course offerings.

Robert Riggs is chairman of the subcommittee working on this problem.

Soccer Club, Allemania Match Scheduled Thanksgiving Day

Brigham Young University's International Soccer Club will host Allemania Thanksgiving morning on the West Field. Game time is 10:30 a. m.

This will be the second game of the season for the BYUISC. The team already having met Allemania's "B" team once this year and dropping a 6-3 decision to them.

The soccer club is composed of players from all over the world. The United States, Iran, Guatemala, China, Canada, Russia, Germany, Mexico, Brazil, India, Argentina, Honduras and the Canal Zone are all represented on the team.

Line-ups tentatively set for the game are as follows:

This season the BYU club is playing as an independent team, but tentative plans call for the club to join the Utah Soccer Association in March.

Korean Track Ace Takes First Place In Cross-Country

Bok Suk Shim, the tireless Korean distance man, gained the first notch on the Dr. H. G. Merrill trophy in taking the annual intramural Cross Country run during Saturday's Wyoming-BYU football game.

Shim was pressed hard by freshman Gary Griffeth who finished just six strides behind the Korean ace.

Shim's time was a respectable 12:03. The record was set by Sherald James last year over the 2.6 mile course. James' time was 11:38.3.

Of the 20 starters only seven were able to finish. They were: Shim, Griffeth, David Galbraith, Ray Albert, Frank Baird, Ralph Reiche, Ronald Moore.

Cougars Meet Falcon In Season's Final Tilt

by Mark Murphy

Still elated over their effort against Wyoming's tarnished and derailed bowl express, Brigham Young University's rambunctious Cougars are preparing for their season's finale against the Air Academy Falcons Saturday in Denver.

Coach Harold Kopp and staff are busily concocting a successful offensive formula for the Falcon tussle in an effort to end the season on a valuable win note

Practice chores for the week will be light after their rigorous defensive struggle with the ed Waddies. Concentration will be mostly on passing and handling. The Cougars will have a vacation Thursday and a light drill Friday before leaving for Denver.

The Cougars came out of Wyoming game with one notable lesson learned. They now know that their line is capable of handling most offenses, also on their effective control of the American candidate Jim Crawford and his hard running cohorts.

Max Tolbert, chief scout for the Cougars, quickly dispelled thoughts of over-confidence on the Brigham's part. He viewed the Falcon's losing battle with Idaho State last weekend and came away with a glowing report of the military team.

Head Coach Buck Shaw, old hand at coaching the sport, having coached both the collegiate and professional ranks. Coach Shaw was also one of the pioneers of the T-formation.

According to the scouting report of Tolbert, the Falcons are bigger than the Cougars, with several outstanding players. They play a wide open game.

The football situation is unique at the Academy, the team having been built from scratch at the 2-year-old institution. They belong to no particular league, are neither a freshman nor varsity team and strive someday become one of the most feared squads on the gridiron.

Halfback Larry Thomason, a pounder from Billings, Montana, is the offensive sparkplug for the Falcons. Already he is being boomed for All-American honors in his second year of collegiate ball.

According to Tolbert's scouting report, the Falcons are a combination of veterans and inexperienced personnel. Some of them have played a couple of years of major college ball and are ready.

The Falcons have tailed off recently after six straight victories. In their last two games they have been tied by Whittier's Poets and beaten 13-7 by Idaho State's Bengals.

Proving that they are riding high on the football horizon, the Falcons have scheduled five of their nine Conference opponents. George Washington University in 1957 After '57 the Academy expects to have such biggies as Southern Methodist, Boston, Pittsburgh, Oregon, UCLA, Stanford and Wisconsin. Army and Navy will also be regulars on the Falcon schedule.

So far this season the flying Falcons boast victories over two conference champions.

The game will start at 1:30 on the Denver Pioneer stadium iron
